Service & Support (SSA) Administration Services

The job of a Service and Support Administrator (also called an SSA) is to help a person with a disability get the services they need to live their life. SSAs link individuals to the services and supports that they need by meeting with individuals and families to develop a person-centered service and support plan using the Ohio Department of Developmental Disabilities' online information system. SSAs also coordinate and monitor services and supports for all individuals on their caseload.
